Schools and Companies working together in the same direction

Thirty people from fifteen institutions from eleven different European countries joined together in the first international encounter after the constitution last year of the InnMain Association.

The meeting was supported by representatives of the most important institutions of the Island, as the Major of the city, the President of the Balearic Government, the General Director of Education and the vice-chairman of the Chamber of Commerce.

Throughout the exposure of the workshops one main idea was behind all of them: vocational training has to be linked to the companies. According to this, InnMain needs to find ways for cooperation between schools and enterprises trying to involve companies within our organization.

European companies need to improve the job quality of their employees in order to increase the productivity; schools have the responsibility of providing society well skilled new workers. We need to be connected.

More every day companies operate at international level and maintenance is crossing frontiers. On the other hand we are attending a new trends in our students who want to travel abroad to have a real work experience.

Once more the InnMain partners reached the conclusion that in order to have sustainable projects, the key is confidence between ourselves.

The President of Balearic Islands attended the Open Ceremony

First international meeting of School's Principals

Schools' Principals from Denmark, the Netherlands, Turkey and Spain shared their ideas and expertise about three main topics: the Human Resources Department, the implementation of ICT in Schools, and Information Systems: planning, programming and control.

The meeting was organized by the InnMain department of School Management, and took place the day before the Conference in a small chalet in the south of Mallorca Island. The key of success was a good and relaxed atmosphere, which provided the attendants with very good ideas.

Hasan explained the methodology of the Project Management International Department.

Workshop 1: The Dual System of Vocational Training

Led by Ms. Nicole Fandrich from the ZWH, in this workshop was introduced the Dual System of Vocational Training. Representatives from Denmark, The Netherlands and Finland explained as well the peculiarities presented in their own countries, and the differences in comparison with the German model.

The participating institutions could compare those models and make a reflection on which could be the best way for introducing it in their own countries –in case they have not already implemented –, or thinking about how to improve the model and make it adaptable to the changing situation in Europe, in case they have already this VET system in their countries.

Relationship between schools and companies

This workshop was presented by Mr. René Strijbosch, from Maintenance Education Consortium.

It was a participative workshop where the participants split in different groups and discussed about the interests of the companies and the different ways for mutual cooperation.

The results were exposed in a general session. The main conclusion was that it is necessary to look for colaboration between policy, education and Industry.

To achieve our goals in InnMain it will be necessary to involve companies within our network, not only for students internships but also for developing European programs, as “Transfer of Innovation” or “Development of Innovation”

Mobility of students, company’s trainers and teachers

Based on the previous experience, the participats talked about three main subjects: inventory of experiences of how student’s mobility is working at the present time, presenting the experiences and creating a group of top areas of improvement, and suggesting recomendations on those specific areas.

As a result of this workshop it was written down a document for improving the students mobility activities, focused in the objectives of the new program Erasmus + which will start the next year 2.014.

Regarding teachers’ mobility it was underlined the importance of boosting the International Technical Departments and mobilities VETPRO, as well as teachers exchanges for educative purposes.

International Technical Departments Report

One by one all the International Technical Departments presented a report about what they have done and what are their objectives for the future. The Departments were: Mechanics and Automatic installations, H V A C , Refrigeration and Renewable Energies, Languages, Mobility of students, School Management, Project Management, Electricity-Electronics, Automotive, ICT, Welding and Mechanics, Human Factors and Social Skills. We had the opportunity of connecting with some representatives via Skype Conference. Mr. Ignacio Ferrer presented the TOI Project ToP-MoSt , as a mean for facilitating the recognition of the skills learned in other schools. All the schools were invited in participating in the tool they are creating, the “Mobility Matrix “, which will allow mobilities of high quality between InnMain schools.

“The industrial maintenance activities are no longer a national affair”

Mr. René Strijbosch

Executive Board anual report

It was the turn of the officials of the Association to summarize this first year of InnMain’s life. Leonardo Pinna explained via Skype his new situation in Confindustria. Antonio related all the Projects we have presented in the 2.103 Call, where almost all the InnMain partners are involved, and Wim explained how has been the way of governance within the Executive Board.

Ms. Annejet Goede (ROC West-Brabant) gave us an excellent presentation via Skype Conference from Brussels explaining the basis of the new Program “Erasmus Plus”.

Finally the partners could make questions and commentaries regarding the deeds of the last year, as well as proposals for the new year.

Mrs. Gloria was the host of the meeting of Principals: thank you for all your kindness!

Annual meeting of the InnMain Government Board

Firstly the candidate partners presented their own institutions, and after the vote they were accepted within our organization. Later on, one after another all the institutions had their own turn for saying whatever they wanted.

The Department of Human Factors presented a proposal to the assembly: to hold a meeting with students and teachers from all InnMain schools in order to promote high qualified technicians. The meeting will take place in Germany next year.

The General Director for Universities in the Balearic Islands attended the Closing Ceremony. He remarked that we live in a special time for cooperation at European Level, and the collaboration between policy, educative institutions and companies is absolutely necessary for developing Europe.

“It is not only a question of devices, it’s all about using social media in our daily work, in and outside the classroom”

Mr. Andries de Boer

PARTICIPANTS:

New InnMain partners and preparing the next Conference

Every year, within the Annual Conference, the General Assembly accepts the new candidates. On this occasion, two new partners were admitted: The University of Pitesti (Romania) and Escola Profissional Val do Rio, from Lisbon.

We had also some important guests: representatives from the Ministry of Education of Mallorca and Valencia (Spain) and the Principal of a VET school in Paide (Estonia).

Before the end of the Conference is selected the new placement for the next Conference: on this occasion Ms. Krishna gave no other possibility than Dudley College. Thanks!

Not all was working hard... There were many good moments which allowed the participants to increase friendship and share moments of joy. Definitely this InnMain group is more than an European Network: it looks more like an international family...
